Dear Resident,

Re: Maximum Accommodation Charge Adjustment for Type A and B Continuing Care Homes

On July 6, 2026, Assisted Living Alberta introduced a one-time two percent increase to the maximum accommodation charges.

The Alberta government sets the maximum resident accommodation charge for Type A and Type B Continuing Care Homes.

Residents living in continuing care homes are responsible for paying an accommodation charge. Examples of things covered by accommodation charges include rooms, meals, housekeeping, utilities, routine building maintenance, etc.

Effective August 1, 2026, the new daily maximum accommodation charges to residents for single occupancy are set as follows:

Room Type	Daily	New Daily Rate
Private Room	$81.60	$83.05
Semi-Private Room	$70.60	$71.85

You can find more information at Continuing care – Resident accommodation charges | Alberta.ca.

If you have any questions or concerns regarding the continuing care home accommodation charges presented, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

Peter C. Birzgalis
